

Mardley Heath Saturday Series Results 8th May 2004

Organiser's Comments.

Hope everyone enjoyed their day and thanks to everyone who came despite the rain. It was a very good turn out. Special thanks to the helpers, especially the planner Tony Covey-Crump. My challenge was to organise the event with the least effort possible and then write about it in Pacemaker, to show how easy these events are to organise. Thanks to everybody else's hard work you will be able to look forward to the article!

Planner's Comments

It was less than easy to plan a 2k Yellow and 3k Orange course on Mardley Heath, due to the intricacy of the area, and also the vegetation and paths on the map being a little out of date in places. This, in conjunction with a number of participants distracting themselves with a session of tadpole fascination half-way round the course, would explain some quite high average completion times.

The heath is a beautiful place to be lost for a while, and all seemed to have enjoyed themselves nonetheless, so I hope that it continues to get a regular slot on the Saturday series.

I think that the score course was fair. Each lap of the score course had 6 easy navigation controls, and 6 technical controls. The technical controls were often quite well hidden, and required close map contact, but were closer together to compensate. This gave people the choice between a runners and a technical course.

Thanks to Simon Errington for agreeing to print the master maps, and for drawing many by hand when the printing failed due to poor lamination of the maps.
